

Stella Dugdale has lived with art all her life as her father was a fine draughtsman and artist, and now her daughter is a textile designer with her own business in Scotland. Stella likes to paint with a limited palette, no more than 4 colours. Her favourite famous artists are Rene Magritte and Salvador Dali.

Talking about Pam's classes, she says, "They are an excellent place to expand your skills and are well-structured, helpful and encouraging held in a large airy hall, which is warm in winter and there are refreshments. There is an exhibition of classwork in the summer for visitors and friends."

Above: "Fantasia" by Stella Dugdale